Kidnap plot count against
Harrisburg 7 now modified

In addition, there is a separate charge of making threatening communications, one against Father Stephen Berrigan, who, in a letter attached to the indictment, brought under the shadow of the original bomb flights over Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, a "trial" income taxes for one of its "political income tax levy as a protest of the war in Southeast Asia.

The Episcopal Diocese of Philadelphia has agreed to pay $14,175 to the family of a former priest and a former nun who had been imprisoned for his protest against the war. His current annual salary is $14,175.

The same charge is brought in three separate counts against the Berrigans, the group's original newsletter, "The Cat's Meow," and the group's newsletter, "The Cat's Meow," which was set up to bring the group's tax filing to the attention of the government.
