If we were not just naturally aware of the recent Jewish Holidays, if you attemped to go shopping in the Jewish Industrial Section, as I did, you were promptly immersed in the current discussion concerning the Jewish Festival of Days. Rabbi Bernadine W. Rosenthal, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, represented the American Jewish community as a whole in a discussion on the meaning of the Festival of Days. Here are a few key points from her address to the general audience.

1. The Festival of Days encompasses a range of religious and cultural traditions. For Jews, it includes both historical and current events.
2. Rabbi Rosenthal emphasized the significance of the Festival of Days in commemorating the survival of the Jewish people.
3. She highlighted the importance of giving thanks during this period.
4. Rabbi Rosenthal encouraged everyone to consider the Festival of Days as a time for repairing relationships and promoting peace.

The Festival of Days is observed by Jews throughout the world and is a time to reflect on the past, present, and future of the Jewish people. It is a time for unity and to remember the strength of the Jewish community. Rabbi Rosenthal's speech was a call to action for everyone to contribute to a more peaceful and harmonious world.

Office for Black Catholics

names new director

The National Office of Black Catholics of the United States has announced the appointment of a new director. Dr. John E. Scott, Jr., is the new director of the Office for Black Catholics. Dr. Scott is the first African American to hold this position.

Dr. Scott brings a wealth of experience to his new role. He has served as a professor and administrator at various universities, including Howard University and the University of Pennsylvania. His expertise in education and administration will be an asset to the Office for Black Catholics.

The Office for Black Catholics is committed to promoting the interests of black Catholics in the United States. It serves as a link between the black Catholic community and the Church, and it provides a platform for the black Catholic voice to be heard.

Dr. Scott's appointment is a significant milestone for the Office for Black Catholics. It represents a step forward in the Church's efforts to engage more fully with the black Catholic community.

We extend our congratulations to Dr. Scott on his new position and wish him every success in his endeavors.

Will we pray for peace and war?

As we approach the annual observance of the Festival of Days, it is fitting to reflect on the call to prayer for peace. The Festival of Days is a time to remember the strength of the Jewish people and to give thanks for the survival of the Jewish community.

The Festival of Days is a time to seek forgiveness and to repair relationships. It is a time to reflect on the past, present, and future of the Jewish people. It is a time to remember the strength of the Jewish community.

As we remember the Festival of Days, let us also remember the call to prayer for peace. Let us pray for a world free of war and conflict. Let us pray for a world where all people are free to live in peace and harmony.
