

Getting Information, Organizing Ideas, and Support for Your War Tax Resistance

READ OUR NEWSLETTER More Than a Paycheck: Refusing to Pay for War in print or online. Six issues a year are packed with technical updates for resisters, organizing ideas, action reports, personal profiles, and more. $15/year by mail; check off the box on the enclosed return slip or subscribe and read it online at nwtrcc.org/media/newsletters.

and OUR WEEKLY BLOG POSTS, covering technical info for resisters (“Tangled up in banking,” “Will I go to jail if I refuse to pay war taxes?”); news and connections (“The latest travel ban expands US wars” “Trump’s wall plans are built on existing border militarization”); organizing ideas (“Yes, it’s time for a tax strike,” “Tax day resistance, redirection, and planning ahead”); history (“Ammon Hennacy’s ‘one-man revolution,’” “Thoreau’s work is still relevant”); and support (“Finding humor in the struggle,” “Resisting alone, then discovering community”); and more. Subscribe at nwtrcc.org, right column, for notices when a new blog posts.

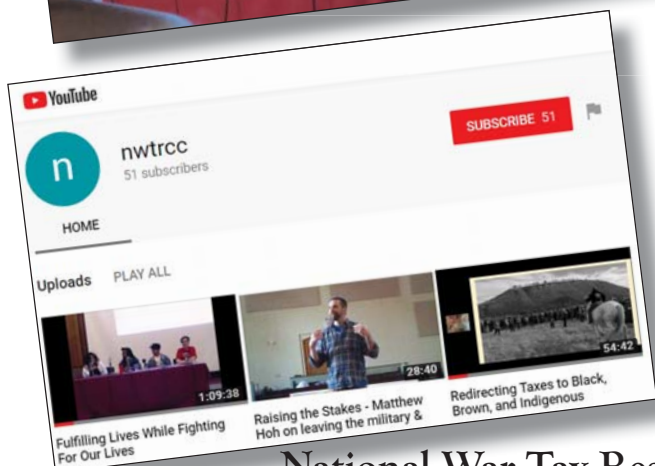

LISTEN TO OUR PODCASTS at nwtrcc.org/media/podcasts-and-talks, including the latest “Why and How I Became a War Tax Resister” with four who just started resisting, plus “Matthew Hoh: From the Military to WTR,” “War Tax Resisters Abroad,” “Talking with Shane Claiborne,” “Reflections of Experienced War Tax Resisters,” and more. For periodic notices when a new podcast is posted, subscribe at feeds.feedburner.com/WarTaxTalkPodcast.

MEET UP AT OUR GATHERINGS in May and November, or with others in your region. Watch our website and newsletter for dates and locations. The recent gathering in Amherst, Massachusetts, included a panel discussion at UMASS with organizers working on immigration, prison, and climate issues, (l to r) Camila, La Malcriada; Nathalie Amazan; Rojas Oliva; and NWTRCC’s Social Media Consultant Erica Leigh. You can watch it on our YouTube channel — then plan to join us the first weekend in May in Los Angeles. Details and registration materials will be available in the early spring.
